ABOUT JENNIFER

Jennifer Brown is a bestselling author, keynote speaker, and one of today's most trusted voices on leadership, culture, and change — known for her warmth, candor, and ability to name what others hesitate to say. With more than two decades of experience guiding leaders through transformation, she has become a leading authority on building inclusive, future-ready workplaces rooted in trust, belonging, and human potential. Author of four books, including How to Be an Inclusive Leader (nearly 100,000 copies sold) and her 2026 release, The Shape of Change, and creator of the globally recognized Inclusive Leader Continuum™, used by organizations worldwide to move individuals and teams from awareness to sustained action.

Jennifer has partnered with Google, Microsoft, IBM, Toyota, Amazon, Salesforce, JPMorgan Chase, Johnson & Johnson, NASA, and the Mayo Clinic, and has been featured in The Wall Street Journal, Harvard Business Review, and Fast Company.

Based in New York - available in-person regionally (tri-state, Philadelphia, D.C.) and nationally. Available virtually worldwide.

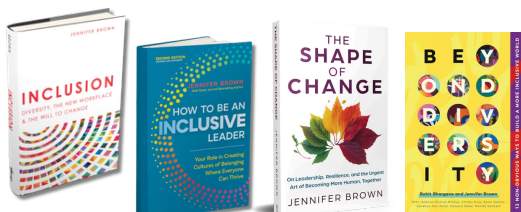

Organizations turn to Jennifer when they need to:

- Navigate leadership and culture through disruption, uncertainty, and change
- Rebuild trust and deepen belonging across teams and organizations
- Advance inclusion through a human-first, future-focused leadership lens
- Equip leaders to lead with empathy, adaptability, and purpose
